Good nutrition is key to the well-being and healthy development of animals. We develop innovative solutions for the livestock, aquaculture and pet food sectors, with a focus on science, sustainability and efficiency.

We are a leading producer of functional ingredients, hydrolysed proteins and yeast extracts for animal feed.
Palbio hydrolysed proteins are designed to contribute to maintaining intestinal health, especially in the early stages of animal development. Our experience has made us a benchmark in the production of hydrolysed porcine intestinal mucosa proteins, a product of high biological value that has proven to be essential for the healthy growth of different species.
Our products are characterised by their high digestibility and palatability, and by the interesting profile of free amino acids and bioactive peptides in their composition.

The company was founded in 1977 in Solares (Cantabria).

Initially, its operations focused on the manufacture and sale of "electric shepherds"—the term commonly used for electric fence energizers.

Later, in order to better serve its customers, the company expanded its product line to include fencing accessories, automatic water troughs, and livestock equipment. It also began distributing other products that complement its own manufactured goods.

Today, we offer our customers an extensive range of products, encompassing all types of fencing accessories and equipment for livestock farmers.
